Evaluation of Deep Saline Aquifers of Central and South Florida for Geologic Carbon Sequestration

Tina Roberts-Ashby

Mark Stewart

University of South Florida
Florida Energy Systems Consortium
Sunniland Trend of the South Florida Basin
Average thickness is about 70 m
Interpolated Porosity Cross-Section for Sunniland Field
Interpolated Porosity for the Sunniland Formation

Most porosities are >15%
Estimated CO₂ storage capacity in tons/km²